Re: Eldorado Resorts proxy: ISS recommends voting FOR Shareholder Proposals for 6/19/19 Meeting

We are writing with an important update on the Eldorado proxy solicitation for the 6/19/19 meeting. ISS is recommending shareholders of Eldorado Resorts vote FOR a set of five non-binding proposals by using the BLUE dissident card. UNITE HERE is soliciting the proposals, which urge Eldorado Resorts, a fast-growing gaming company, to opt out of Nevada’s little-known anti-takeover statutes.

According to ISS: “Support is warranted on the dissident (BLUE) card for all five shareholder proposals, as they would assist in enhancing shareholder rights.” You can find additional information about ISS’s recommendation on the Eldorado proxy here: <http://www.bettergovernanceateldorado.org/iss-recommends-eldorado-resorts-shareholders-vote-for-proposals-to-opt-out-of-nevada-takeover-protections-on-the-blue-card-unite-here-announces/>

We would like to ensure that you received our proxy materials and set up a call with you and your team to answer any questions you may have ahead of the vote. You may view our presentation, proxy statement and other materials at <http://www.bettergovernanceateldorado.org/>. ### 3. Press Release:

ISS recommends Eldorado Resorts shareholders vote FOR proposals to opt out of Nevada takeover protections on the BLUE card, UNITE HERE announces

NEW YORK--(BUSINESS WIRE)—June 11, 2019 -- UNITE HERE announced today that proxy advisory firm Institutional Shareholder Services, Inc. (ISS) recommends that shareholders of Eldorado Resorts, Inc. [NASDAQ: ERI] vote FOR a set of five non-binding shareholder rights proposals, including opting out of Nevada’s anti-takeover statutes. ISS stated: “Support is warranted on the dissident (BLUE) card for all five shareholder proposals, as they would assist in enhancing shareholder rights.”<sup>1</sup>

The proxy solicitation by UNITE HERE focuses on opting out of little-known Nevada statutes that, by default, impose restrictions on the rights of large shareholders and restrict business combinations with large shareholders. Additional proposals encourage Eldorado not to adopt other takeover protections like a poison pill or supermajority voting requirement if it does opt out. The meeting date is June 19, 2019.

ISS states: “the proposals seek relatively uncontroversial enhancements to corporate governance that would reduce exposure to applicable state-level anti-takeover provisions, ensure the continuation of best-practice majority vote requirements, and strengthen accountability to shareholders.”<sup>2</sup>

Regarding Proposal 5, ISS concludes: “Control share acquisition statutes, like other state-level anti-takeover provisions, can deter or prevent transactions that would otherwise be in the best interest of shareholders, and can serve as a board entrenchment mechanism. They also violate the ‘one share, one vote’ principle.”<sup>3</sup>

Regarding Proposal 6, ISS concludes similarly: “Freeze-out statutes ... can deter or prevent transactions that would otherwise be in the best interest of shareholders, and can serve as a board entrenchment mechanism.”<sup>4</sup>

ISS is recommending shareholders vote on the BLUE card and vote FOR Proposals 5-9. The Company’s and UNITE HERE’s proposals are the same on both proxy cards. Information about the proposals is available at www.BetterGovernanceAtEldorado.org, and shareholders are encouraged to read UNITE HERE’s proxy statement and solicitation materials available at www.sec.gov or www.proxyvote.com.

Eldorado is an active party in gaming mergers, growing rapidly to twenty-six casinos during the past five years through mergers with public companies and property acquisitions.
